FOREWORD

Note: The compiler has discovered that there may be a connection between the Blacker family of Blacker Hall, Yorkshire, England and the Blacker family of Somerset, England with a member of the Somerset people marrying into the Hurst family. The factor being a possible common ancestor in Yorkshire, England known as NICHOLAS BLACKER born about 1550 in Yorkshire who possibly went to live in Somerset, England about 1600...

The only factor found which would indicate that he could have moved to Somerset, is the following certificate...

Note: The dates work for the Nicholas Blacker of Yorkshire...

CHAPTER ONE

HEPZIBAH BLACKER AND HENRY WILLIAM B HURST
THEIR ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS
BLACKER FAMILY OF BRUTON, CLUTTON, SOMERSET, ENGLAND

Note: The compiler has noted that another common factor between the Blakker's/Blacker's of Yorkshire and the Blacker's of Somerset, England was that some individual families had owned 'FARMS' and alongside these farms they had owned 'BREWERIES'...a coincidence or not?

NAME MEANING

Blacker

John

English: from Blacker, a minor placename in Crigglestone in Sandal (Yorkshire), meaning 'black marsh' from Old English blæc 'black' + Old Norse kjarr 'marsh'.

English: occupational name from Middle English blakere, blakkere, the meaning of which is disputed. It may be a derivative of Middle English blaken 'to blacken' (from Old English blæc 'black'). The nature of the occupation is unclear, but it may have involved making black ink or dyeing cloth black. It is also speculated to derive from an unrecorded Middle English blaken, a hypothetical side form of blechen, from Old English blæcan 'to whiten'.

MORE

German (Bläcker): probably from Middle Low German black 'black ink', hence an occupational name for an ink maker.

Hepzibah is a girl's name of Hebrew origin. Meaning "my delight is in her," it comes as no surprise that this little one will quickly become the light of your life.

Thermuthis (fl. 1500 bce)

Egyptian pharaoh's daughter who raised the baby Moses. Born and lived around 1500 bce; daughter of Seti I or Ramses II; foster mother of Moses.

The Egyptian princess Thermuthis is identified by Judeo-Christian scholars as the daughter of either the pharaoh Seti I or Ramses II. In the Old Testament she is recognized as the foster mother of Moses, a childless woman who rescued him as an infant and raised him as her own son in the pharaoh's palace.
